Dear [insert name]

There is strong international scientific consensus that agricultural production around the world will suffer serious setbacks from climate change. These setbacks will have an immediate effect on the ability of millions of small scale farmers in developing countries to feed themselves and their communities. As an industrialized nation contributing significantly to climate change, we as [insert Canadians or Americans] bear a particular responsibility to both reduce our own emissions of greenhouse gases and to support the adaptation efforts of those populations most vulnerable to climate change...

I urge my government to make climate change adaptation for small scale farmers a priority for [insert Canada's or US] aid programming and that this be part of a comprehensive climate change strategy.
