Asia Disasters

More than a thousand people died and hundreds were injured after earthquakes struck the island of Sumatra in Indonesia. Homes and public buildings collapsed; communities are struggling to cope.

Cambodia, the Philippines and Vietnam face the aftermath of Typhoon Ketsana, which dumped heavy rains and caused widespread flooding. Hundreds died; at least 500,000 were displaced.

Flooding in southern India has killed more than 250 people, left some 2.5 million homeless and destroyed crops and livestock.
